Background

The nursing program has used e-learning for a long time accompanied with a traditional view on the learning, student's and the teacher's role. It is urgent to change that towards an open education culture needed for fostering nurses to e-health consumers.

Aim

To describe how and in what way OER can be implemented and used for learning. The effects and the implementation process will be studied.

Methods

A mixed method - questionnaires, diaries and interviews (narratives) will be used. The focus will be on students' participation, knowledge, empowerment, responsibility and attitudes of using OER.
